Camerawork Gallery, country's longest running fine art photography gallery moves to the Legacy Emanuel campus

WHAT: Camerawork is the country's oldest, continuously exhibiting, fine art photography gallery. The gallery is moving from Northwest Portland to Legacy Emanuel Medical Center's Lorenzen Conference Center.

In its 48 years of operation, over 600 one person or group shows have been held in the gallery. Exhibitors have included established and developing photographers in the Northwest and icons in the history of photography— including Minor White, Brett Weston, Imogen Cunningham, Ruth Bernhard, and Jerry Uelsmann.

Fine art photography exhibitions at the Gallery have evolved with time, progressing from the traditional black and white silver images to include all forms of color printing, Polaroid manipulations and transfers, other archaic photographic processes and now digitally photographed and printed work.

WHEN: Opens to the public on June 30, 2018. Regular gallery hours: Monday – Friday 9 am – 6 pm and Sunday, 10 am – 4 pm. Free parking.

Opening day exhibit is National Geographic photographer Randy Olson's "Plastic Apocalypse"

Reception: June 30, 2018, 3:30 pm – 7 pm

Artist talk is 4:30 pm – 5:15 pm

WHERE: Legacy Emanuel Medical Center
