Death Investigation
February 2, 2023

In February 2020, human skeletal remains were found by a longshoreman at the Weyerhaeuser dock in Longview, Washington. Detectives with the Cowlitz County Sheriff's Office and members of the Cowlitz County Coroner's Office searched the area and found a nearly complete skeleton buried in thick blackberry bushes. The skeleton was collected, and the scene was processed. The skeletal remains were sent to the King County Medical Examiner's Office for a full forensic examination. The examination showed no signs of trauma, and the cause of death is unknown. A forensic odontologist made a dental record for comparison with the National Missing Person's Database. Anthropological analysis suggested that the skeletal remains belonged to an adult Caucasian or Hispanic male.

In November of 2021, Detectives began working with Othram, a private DNA lab that specializes in advanced forensic DNA testing. Using Forensic-Grade Genome Sequencing® and genetic genealogy, they were able to identify potential family members of the unidentified subject. Detectives contacted the family and learned that they had a missing family member. Jade David Feigert was 22 years old and living in Columbia County, OR when he went missing in February 2017. Feigert was last seen when he was dropped off in Kelso, WA by his mother.

Detectives worked with Feigert's mother, Monica Feigert, and sent her DNA profile, which she had from a consumer DNA testing company to Othram. Othram compared the DNA and determined that it was a match to a mother/son relationship. Detectives also contacted Feigert's father, Michael Smith, who lives in Texas.

Detectives had also worked with the National Missing and Unidentified Persons System (NamUs). NamUs is a nationwide tracking system for missing and unidentified subjects. The Cowlitz County Sheriff's Office had entered the characteristics of the remains into NamUs. The Columbia County Sheriff's Office had entered Feigert's information into NamUs when his family had reported him missing in March of 2021. After Othram led Detectives to Feigert, NamUs had a Forensic Odontologist compare the dental records of the two subjects and determined that they matched.
